WHY WE BRING CHILDREN'S BOOKS TO THE FRIEND-RAISER

The Women's Correctional Facility located in Swannanoa has a program by which the inmates are able to read on tape a children's book for their children. The book and tape is then sent to the inmate's child. The child can follow the story in the book as the child listens to her/his mother reading it. For some of these children, this book may be the first they have ever owned. For the past several years, AAUW members, at the annual Friend-Raiser, bring children's books, new or used, very good condition, unwrapped for use in this program. The books should be at the reading and interest level of an eight to ten year old. Please do NOT wrap the book. For more information, contact AAUW member Marilyn Kolton, 259-9461

PLAN A GIRLS NIGHT OUT IN SUPPORT OF UNC-A WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

The marketing and ticketing assistant for the UNC Asheville Athletics Ticket Office contacted us through our website. She wrote, "I would love for the Asheville chapter of the American Association of University Women to come support the women's basketball team at a game this season! Games are great way to show school spirit, support female athletes, and have fun with other members of your organization." For more information contact Juliana Grassia at jgrassia@unca.edu or the Ticket Office at 828-258-7900. Games are scheduled throughout December, January and February.

FROM THE BRANCH PRESIDENT

In the past few days, I have become aware of several needs of the Branch and am recruiting help to meet them. First, we need a person to maintain a file of hardcopies of essential or exceedingly important documents. Second, we need someone to periodically update information for the national AAUW website 3 or 4 times a year. If you want to volunteer for either project, call or email me (AAUW Asheville NC Branch Directory 2014-2015, p. 31). Neither of these jobs will be time consuming or rigorous. We can talk about particulars. You probably have better ideas than I.

If you missed the November 6 branch meeting, you missed a talk that reminded us that we live in a state and a nation in which many children live in poverty to their peril. Greg Borum, a young man dedicated to ameliorating childhood poverty, told of the work he does with Children First—Communities in Schools. We were reminded that “children in poverty...experience poorer health, safety, and education, as well as greater levels of toxic stress than children from families with more money.” In our county, “1 out of 4 children...is living in poverty.” After Greg’s talk, a new member told me how glad she was to learn of AAUW’s interest in this kind of work. Check out Children First online and see what’s being done and opportunities to help.

I’ll be at the Friendraiser on December 4. Hope to see you there.

Enjoy the holidays, Ann Clarke Snell, ann_clarke_snell@hotmail.com or 828-232-1894

AAUW ASHEVILLE 100TH YEAR HISTORY

A group of 17 young women college graduates met in Boston in the fall of 1881 to discuss restrictions against the education, growth, and development of women. They formed a national alumnae association of women representing Boston University, Cornell University, Oberlin, Smith, Vassar and Wellesley Colleges, and the University of Michigan and Wisconsin. The Southern Association of College Women later organized in 1903 in Knoxville, TN. These two organizations merged at a meeting held in Washington, DC in April of 1921 to become the American Association of University Women.

The Asheville branch of the AAUW can trace it's history from March 27th, 1915, when 16 female college graduates in the community met and organized the "Western Carolina Branch of the Southern Association of College Women". In their first year another 12 women joined, for a total of 28 members. In 1939 the name was changed to the Asheville Branch of the American Association of University Women.

From the beginning the Branch tackled community projects. In 1919, when businessmen were trying to make Asheville a convention city, the AAUW members contributed $5 each and worked successfully to bring the national convention of the Federation of Women's Clubs to Asheville. Community work centered on helping the Salvation Army, support for Travelers Aid, and visiting patients in the local sanitariums. Other projects included working to improve standards in colleges for women, to establish night schools, to help set up a juvenile court system, and to improve the probation system. They hit the ground running with their new organization.

Stay tuned for the next chapter next month. And if you are interested in participating in costume please contact Nini Abbott niniabbott@gmail.com for information on the Centennial Fashion Show.

NEW ERA SPECIAL INTEREST GROUP

I have been working for more than 40 years in Louisiana and now North Carolina to get the ERA ratified. It simply states that "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of sex. "

The North Carolina General Assembly will consider the ERA in 2015. We have the support of four legislators, with others expressing interest. Now is the time for AAUW members in our state to get involved.

If you would like to become part of a new Special Interest Group organized to support the ERA, I am willing to be the leader.

If you are interested, please contact me at robertamadden@era-nc.org or 419-0730. Then we can set a date for a first meeting.

Please consider joining this group to help pass this important amendment.

DIVERSITY AND INCLUSION – AAUW / ASHEVILLE BRANCH

Periodically reviewing the mission of AAUW helps to keep the Asheville Branch Board of Directors focused on what the driving purpose is of the AAUW organization:

Advancing equality for women and girls through advocacy, education, philanthropy and research.

The American Association of University Women is the nation's leading voice promoting equality and education for women and girls. Since our founding in 1881, AAUW members have examined and taken position on the fundamental issues of the day – educational, social, economic and political.

The impact that AAUW makes for women and girls “breaks through educational and economic barriers so that all women have a fair chance”. With that in mind, the Asheville Board agreed that it is important for our chapter to create a diversity and inclusion statement that will help drive programs, membership and all activities for the Asheville Branch and align us with the mission of the overall organization.

At a recent Board meeting, the following statement was presented and adopted by the Board. You will see the statement on all branch newsletters and other materials that are created and sent to the branch membership.

“We are committed to fostering, cultivating and preserving a culture of diversity and inclusion. We recognize that differences in age, race, gender, nationality, sexual orientation, physical ability, thinking style and background bring richness to our organization.

We are committed to being an organization that reflects and understands the population it serves – members and the community at large. As such, we will foster diversity and inclusion in all aspects of our activities – membership, volunteers, programs, speakers and projects.”

The YWCA and AAUW thank the following members for their financial contributions to the YWCA Drop In Center.

With these contributions, we were able to donate: 2 area rugs, an easel, rocking chair, a baby chair, storage boxes for closet, books, and many art supplies used daily.

Thank you; Jeanne Smolkin, Ann Snell, Barbara Robinson, Hedy Sarbey, Jan Schwartz, Eleanor Walther, Helen McClintock and Ruth Slawson.

Further donations can be sent to Treasurer: Laurie Powell, notation for Drop In Center
